

UNFINISHED

40 LESSONS ON PURPOSE, SELF, AND BECOMING A MAN

Start your journey today unlocking the full potential of boys and young men of color. Studies show that boys and young men of color, regardless of socio-economic background, are disproportionately at risk throughout the journey from their youngest years to college and career.

Areas of Disproportionality	White	Black	Hispanic
Out of School Suspensions	6%	20%	9%
Graduation Rate	83%	68%	76%

Sources: U.S. Department of Justice and the Los Angeles Times

How We Help

Unfinished: 40 Lessons on Purpose, Self, and Becoming a Man lays the foundation for opportunities to reduce disproportionality among young men. Unfinished aims to increase learning opportunities beyond the classroom while building resilient and productive young men. "Unfinished Business" – based on the 2013 book Unfinished: 40 Lessons on Purpose, Self, and Becoming a Man – is an interactive, day-long program uses reflection as a learning tool to help young men make the most of their learning experiences.

Focus Areas

Self awareness & discovery | Social & emotional impact | Life visioning & goal setting

Invite Reginald To facilitate "Unfinished Business" with your organization, group, classroom or school.

Reginald Bean is a certified cultural competence trainer and the director of multicultural marketing at Coca-Cola Bottling Co. Consolidated, the nation's largest independent Coca-Cola bottler. Contact him to speak to your students or to train your staff on presenting this curriculum.

Reginald@40-lessons.com | 40-lessons.com | 877.318.8638

paperback, 168 pages, $15
Available at 40-lessons.com